

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to bread yeast strains that are effective in dough with a high sugar concentration, optionally in the presence of fungus inhibitors, to fresh or dry bread yeast obtained from said strains, and to those thereof in bread-making.